MCI Stockholders Still Must Approve Verizon Deal

May 13, 2005 2:26PM

MCI stockholders still must approve Verizon's $8.44 billion offer, a vote Verizon hopes to win. MCI stockholders have urged Qwest to buy MCI. Qwest has indicated that it will buy MCI if stockholders reject the Verizon offer.

SBC-ATT and VoIP Spell Telecom History Major Merger Up Against Growing VoIP Dominance

With the purchase of AT&T, SBC has an opportunity to put Ma Bell back together again—at least partially.

Feb 17, 2005 | By Peter Morrissey

Once every few decades, we reach a turning point in telecommunications. In 1876, the telephone was invented, which led to the creation of the Bell network. In 1982, MCI's push into the long-distance market resulted in rulings that broke up AT&T's monopoly and

Europe's Dealmakers Are Dialing Again

The post-bubble telecom doldrums are in the past, and Europewide consolidation is all the rage.

Telecommunications deals in Europe are popping up faster than spring flowers. Mobile giant Vodafone Group PLC (VOD) shelled out $4.4 billion in mid-March to acquire Czech Republic-based two weeks later, the

WHAT IF...

...we were to create a new operating system and user interface knowing what we know today, how far could we go? What kinds of decisions would we make that we might have been unable to even consider 20 or 30 years ago, when the current set of operating systems were first created?

...we could collaborate with one another in an online dimension to create or simulate anything we wanted to?

...we had the robustness of a 3D immersive technology, the diversity of the Internet, and the degree of social interaction we have in the real world?
